

Tides for Wye Landing, Wye East River starting with May 8, 2019.

| NAT GEO Day |   | High/Low | TideTime | HeightFeet | SunriseSunset | MoonTime | % MoonVisible |
|-------------|---|--------------|--------------|----------------|-------------------|--------------|-------------------|
| M           | 8 | Low          | 1:27 AM      | 0.3            | 5:59 AM           | Rise 8:55 AM | 9                 |
|             | 8 | High         | 7:47 AM      | 2.2            | 8:03 PM           |              |                   |
|             | 8 | Low          | 3:40 PM      | 0.5            |                   |              |                   |
|             | 8 | High         | 8:25 PM      | 1.4            |                   |              |                   |

Wye east

We put in at Wye Landing and headed up Wye East Creek toward Wye Mills. Why? Who knows and stop asking. What happened was we found a Great Blue Heron Rookery. It took a while to figure out what the noise was and then there it was over our heads in some Loblolly Pines. Several of the squawking great birds were perched in their nest their heads and beaks silhouetted against the hazy sky. A very pleasant paddle and an exciting find.

